This year's Christmas Dinner/Party was a bit different from the more traditional celebrations of the past. New location (Rural City Beer Co.), a bit more casual, with children attending and a Juggler doin' his stuff!

The only relationship among these is that they're Public Service Announcements, and I ran outta room.

How different snowfall amounts affect different regions of the country:

Accumulation:	East Coast:	The South:	Midwest:
Flurries, > 1 Inch:	Commute times increased by 25-50%	Mild panic and a general sense of doom.	Start to think about wearing long pants... Maybe...
1-4 Inches:	Travel advisories issued.	Schools Closed.	Have to brush the snow off the grill before cooking out or tailgating before the Packer game.
4-8 Inches:	Air traffic diverted, Flights delayed or cancelled.	Stores emptied of bottled water, bread and other emergency provisions.	Roads get salted, Walking the dog becomes a bit more labor intensive. (The dog loves it though.)
8-12 Inches:	Continuous reporting on CNN The Weather Channel about this year's "SNOWAGEDDON."	State of Emergency Declared.	Everyone stocking up on beer cause lines at liquor stores to become even longer than usual.
12-24 Inches:	Schools closed, as well as businesses, airports, hospitals, and all non-essential Government services.	Federal Disaster Declared. National Guard called in.	Minor Traffic Delays.
24-36 Inches:	Total travel ban enforced.	Complete societal breakdown.	Yoga Classes Cancelled.
36+ Inches	Jim Cantore spotted.	Nothing left alive except for small burrowing mammals which will eventually evolve and repopulate the region.	SNOW DAY! YAY!!! <small>(Good for you. You all have to go to work)</small>
